

Stage Set For Big Tinley Festival

Business Men to Sponsor Gala Program of Pep and Fun, Climaxed By Big Dance

Tinley Park is all agog over the great Fall Festival that the business men of Tinley Park are sponsoring on Halloween night, October 31st. A virtual wave of enthusiasm is sweeping the whole community and the biggest crowd that Tinley has seen for many months is anticipated for the gala night.

The business men are giving coupons with every purchase. These coupons are used in voting for the girl to be crowned queen of Tinley Park.

Thru the efforts of the merchants a popularity contest is being sponsored and some fortunate young lady in Tinley Park will be crowned "Miss Tinley Park" with all the pomp and ceremony befitting the occasion.

At a meeting of the business men held Wednesday night it was unanimously decided to present the lucky "Miss Tinley Park" with a walnut wood chest as a gift from the business men.

On the night of the big affair ballot boxes will be placed in the public square and at eight o'clock sharp all ballot boxes will be open for voting and at nine o'clock the ballot boxes will be closed and the vote will be counted at once. The girl having the most votes will be elected Queen of Tinley Park and then escorted to the Saenger hall for the crowning ceremony.

Just prior to this part of the festival all the merchants will open their display windows all gaily decorated for the big occasion and all prizes and lucky numbers will be on exhibit in the windows. Bring your cards and if you find the lucky number among the cards you have, go into the store and claim your prize.

Something unique in the way of entertainment will be provided in the Treasure Hunt when prizes will be given lucky number holders. These numbers will be displayed in the store windows where everyone will have an equal opportunity.

The entire evening will be made up of music and festivities pertaining to Halloween, ghost walks, pumpkin exhibits and the usual fall decorations will prevail thruout the business places, town and dance hall.

The musical program will be in charge of Tony Kososki, local music master, featuring Fred Erickson, pianist.

In an adjoining column appears the full program showing what part each organization in Tinley Park is taking.

The kiddies will be catered too in a way that will delight them. A prize for the funniest pumpkin Jack-o-lantern also a prize for the spookiest Jack-o-lantern will be given.

John C. Funk, one of the leading merchants in the village will offer a prize for the largest pumpkin exhibited. President A. O. Foskett of the Tinley Park Lions Club is offering peony roots as prizes for the four best ears of corn exhibited and also for the best waiter in the room.

Now don't forget this affair is for everyone whether you live in Tinley Park or not, so come to town early to enjoy yourself and make whoopee.

AND LAST, BUT OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE is the BIG DANCE which marks the close of the festivities at the Saenger Hall. Tony's Troubadors will furnish music and specialties. These boys will have specially arranged numbers, something different. There will be barn dances, foxtrots, waltzes, two-steps, quadrilles and the very latest in modern dances.

C. Sander who has successfully supervised fall festivals in 31 cities including Springfield, Illinois, Clinton and Dubuque, Iowa, Eau Claire, Wis., and other prominent cities is in charge of the Tinley event as organizer. Under his direction a gala night is assured. Be sure and come to Tinley Park for the greatest Halloween affair you have ever attended.

The main object of the big affair is to pep up business and bring people to town and put old man depression to rout. The proceeds realized will be turned over to the Tinley Park Parent Teachers Association.

Come in costume if you like, but come to really enjoy yourself. LET'S ALL GO AND PUT THIS FESTIVAL OVER WITH A BANG!!! SEE THE BIG FULL PAGE ADV. IN THIS ISSUE AND READ THE MESSAGES OF YOUR BUSINESS MEN. Rules of the contest and other information given on this page so be sure to read it.

Tinley Mayor Issues A Relief Proclamation

Today this community with more than eighty others in Cook County is faced with an emergency not of its own creation. Through no fault of their own, or of ours, many of our fellow citizens must this winter be provided with the necessities of life which they would rather provide for themselves. Over 100,000 families—men, women and above all children—rely on the people of these eighty communities for aid. To come to their assistance the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook County has been organized. Its campaign has commenced. As head of our local government I call upon all of the citizens to respond promptly and generously to the appeal of this campaign.

The Joint Emergency Relief Fund Committee is seeking to raise a fund of $8,800,000 for the purpose of relief in Cook County this winter. It will not provide extravagant assistance. It will barely cover the physical necessities of life for those in our midst unable to care for themselves and their families. It will assure only the bare essentials for the sustenance of our aged, our sick, our children, and our unemployed, who, through no fault of their own, find themselves at present unable to provide for themselves.

This fund will be disbursed thru over one hundred relief and charitable agencies operating in Cook County. Our own community as well as all other communities in Cook County will benefit through the distribution of this fund.

Every dollar raised in this campaign will be expended in Cook County for our own residents. There will be no discrimination as to race or creed. Every dollar given means a full dollar for the work or relief. Not a cent of campaign expenses will be deducted from contributions. Everyone who has a job, or is financially able, should help him who for the hour has not a job.

All can rest assured that the money they give will be carefully guarded, honestly accounted for, and distributed intelligently where it will best serve the need, by business men who volunteer their services.

I, therefore, call upon everyone in this community to lend to this campaign the support and assistance which it so well merits and deserves, to the end that Cook County shall adequately take care of its own.

WM. T. MOHR
President of the Village of Tinley Park and Vice President of Tinley Park Relief Committee.

Orland Football Team Wallops New Lenox 6 to 0

Orland Park took a hard fought battle from New Lenox last Sunday at Orland. The score being 6 to 0.

The first half was a fairly even affair Orland Park perhaps may have been conceded as having gained slightly more ground.

The end of the third quarter saw the score still nothing at all, but Orland had succeeded in working the ball to the New Lenox 22 yard line from whence Ralph Bodin shot one of his very special passes to Kyle Anderson who neatly snatched the ball out of the air from beyond the New Lenox goal line to score points for Orland and began the 4th quarter.

The remainder of the game was uneventful though bitterly fought and ended with the ball on the New Lenox four yard line as the result of another long pass by Ralph Bodin of Orland to Davidson.

The work of Anderson of Orland at half back and full back was the feature of the game. Always on his toes, always fighting, the line smashing and off tackle "skins" of this bundle of energy coupled with his fine and heady work while on defense served to earn him the medal for the day.

Burkhardt of Orland at right tackle turned in a fine performance.

Giant Airship Visits Mokena

Mokena had a fine view of the giant airship Akron Saturday morning as the great aircraft of the U. S. navy made its test flight over this section toward Chicago. About nine o'clock the ship hove in sight from the west and soared in a north easterly direction. For a long time it appeared to be standing still. The aircraft flew north of Mokena and was in plain sight for half an hour.

The Akron appeared to be headed east and then it moved slightly toward the northeast. Its nose tilted slightly downward and the next minute it was on a straight line again.

The great airship presented a very pretty sight as the great bag glittered in the sunlight like so much silver.

Gilbert Hurley of Mokena followed the ship from Lockport in his auto on 159th street. The dirigible was flying directly over 159th street and he had a very good view of it. He had to run his car 40 miles an hour to keep up with the giant of the skies.

The huge dirigible, the largest in the world, is 785 feet long with a diameter of 132 feet. Eight motors extend from its sides and up near its nose hangs the streamlike gondola from which the ship is operated. Four gigantic fins extend from the rear. Eight Maybach motors, installed inside the hull, propel the Akron at a top speed of 84 miles per hour or at a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour. The propeller shafts tilt on their axis thru 90 degrees and the motors are reversible, allowing the propellers to assist in raising or lowering the ship, as well as to brake its forward movement.

The Akron was started in 1929 and made its first flight for 3 hours and 47 minutes on Sept. 23. It cost $5,375,000 to build. With an overall length of 785 feet, the Akron carries 6,500,000 cubic feet of helium gas.

Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer of the ill fated Shenandoah is in command of the Akron, which carries a crew of 11 officers and 40 men. Inside the huge ship are placed 16 heavy gauged machine guns and five fighting airplanes. The ship is 9 feet longer than the Graf Zeppelin and has a gas capacity twice as large as the Graf.

Mrs. Clara Goesel New Head of Tinley Park Garden Club

Ode to the glade in Boeyer's Wood.

Oh yonder glade! How beautiful, how still!
With twilight shadows purpleing the hill
And murmuring zephyrs strumming through the trees.
How glorious! How celestial art thee.

With bodice green, thy breast has been endowed.
Beyond thee, stately trees with friendly boughs
Reach out, and call to birds that pass on wing, Whispering gently, come, rest here, and sing.

In spring thou art a bed of flowers gay;
A place where bee and butterfly may play.
When held in winter's icy grasp so strong,
The children make thy hill-sides ring with song.

At night when all is mystic calm, and still,
And stars keep watch above thy rocky rill,
I wait as pass the darkened hours away,
To greet the sun alone with thee, and pray.

Trudie Noehring Swisher.
The fourth annual meeting of the Tinley Park Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. E. Rauhoff, Friday October 16, 1931. New officers elected are as follows: President, Mrs. Clara Goesel, Secretary, Mrs. Lelia Moss, Treasurer, Mrs. Minnie Mager.

Written reports by chairman of all standing committees were read, accepted and put on file. Two years ago when Mrs. R. J. Hug took the chair as our president, she pledged to do all in her power to serve and promote the growth of the club in every way. This she has done. Never has there been a more faithful, efficient worker, meeting each task fairly and squarely, and performing same in a cheerful manner. We have all been as proud of our past president as we shall be of our new one, and rejoice over the acceptance of Mrs. Clara Goesel to be our leader for the coming year. We feel certain that the affairs of the club are placed in very capable hands. It was voted that the club hold their annual luncheon October (continued on next page)

No one personally, but the carelessness of every one generally. Every member of a household should be a fire prevention expert. The rules are simple; don't accumulate waste and refuse, blow out matches be fore throwing them down, be careful in the use of ex plosive liquids and take out fire insurance against loss.

Most Sensitive Hands in the World

These are the hands of a group of Angora goat hair sorters at Sanford, Maine. The sense of touch in their fingertips can distinguish as many as fifteen different diameters of hairs, in the thousandths of an inch. If the sorter makes a mistake a fine, luxurious and costly piece of velvet may be ruined later in the weaving. A sorter to hold his job must take better care of himself physically than a football player or prize fighter. Ill-health or a sleepless night will disturb the delicate senses sufficiently to cause errors. No women have ever been able to qualify as hair sorters. Oddly enough the 35 men who sit and match hairs all day long are middle-aged or past. Few of them wear glasses, and few mistakes are made.

HAPPY MEMORIES

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Sarah had never known anything but hard work all her life. Hard work may sometimes be not at all unpleasant and may give one joy and exaltation in the doing, but Sarah's was not of that sort. Her father and mother had come from Europe when Sarah was a little girl, and had settled in New York. They were without education; they were used to toil, and they had no ambition for their daughter to know or to be more than they, themselves, knew or were.

And so Sarah, when she was old enough, went out to service, and being awkward and unskillful, drifted finally into the work of a scrub woman.

But the unexpected does sometimes happen. When Sarah was fifty, perhaps, a relative across the ocean left her a modest legacy which, if properly invested, would have made a living more comfortable for her, and might have provided a little competence for her old age, when scrubbing would not be so easy nor so possible as it now was.

"It's good luck for Sarah," her thrifty friends were heard to say. "She can put this money by for a rainy day."

But Sarah thought otherwise. During all her fifty years she had had no cessation of toil.

"I'm getting old," Sarah said. "I'd like a few happy memories before I die."

And so, foolishly maybe and maybe not, it is not for us to say, Sarah quit her job. She got herself ready, and she went off for a holiday as long as her money lasted to the country from which her father and mother had come. For a time she was a lady, so far as her limited knowledge gave her to understand what that might mean, and when her legacy had been spent she came back again to the old life of toil. If she ever regretted her foolish action, as it was termed by her practical friends, she never said so. She had the memories for which all her life evidently she had longed, and she was content.

When preparing fruit salad, sprinkle bananas, peaches, pears and apples with lemon juice and sugar, as soon as they are cut. This helps to prevent discoloration.

Find Treasure of Last Hindu Ruler

Drain Lake to Recover Ancient Indian Relics.

Calcutta.—A secret underground treasure vault used by the ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, India, has been rediscovered with the aid of Sig. Mancini, an Italian architect. The utmost secrecy surrounds the finding of the treasure, "lost" for so many years near the artificial lake of Saugor.

Jewels and gold found in the vault are said to be worth about $500,000, but they are sacred relics, and the maharajah has not decided whether to ransack the vault or appropriate the treasure. Frequent attempts have been made in the past to discover the jewels and huge sums were spent in searching for them.

The maharajah was once told by an astrologer that he would recover the lost fortune, and he destroyed four old palaces and then built new ones in the search.

The ancestors of the maharajah of Alwar, who claims to descend from the mythological King Rama of Ajodhya, had been charged with the preservation of the historic imperial jewels of the last Hindu emperor, Rana Prithviraj, who was defeated in the battle of Panipat in the Sixteenth century.

The famous crown of the Pandava emperors was said to have been found after the vault was opened.

To the Hindus the jewels have great mystic value, embodying the ruling principles of kingship among them. The possessor of the jewels, Hindus claim, hold the power to rule India in the future.

During the excavation for a huge irrigation reservoir engineers came upon the ruins of an ancient palace. A copper plate was found containing verses in Sanskrit, which indicated that the treasures of the Hindu emperors were carefully stored in vaults near the "lake in the hills."

Sig. Mancini, who has been engaged to supervise the contraction of a new palace for the maharajah on Mount Abu was asked to help in the hunt for the hidden cache. The "lake in The hills" was decided to be the beautiful Lake Saugor, and, under the pretext of changing the water, it was drained dry. The lake's bed was cleaned out. In the center was discovered strong masonry work. On examining it an entrance was found behind a huge movable stone.

A tunnel under the lake bed led to the vault lying hidden deep in the rocky hills. In the first chamber was found a huge copper vessel.

On being opened, the vessel was found to be full of gold. It was one solid mass, apparently having been melted and poured into the vessel before it was placed in the vault. Tracks on the ground led to the corner in the wall where the second entrance to a second vault was located. There the $500,000 in jewels and gold was found.

Time Clock Crowing Governed by Whistle

Kingston, N. C.—A hen owned by William R. Brinkley, master of the local fox hunt club, laid a freak egg. Ridges on one side formed the rough likeness of a clock dial.

The hen was broody. Brinkley allowed her to keep the egg. The egg was hatched and produced a chick. The chick became a cockerel.

A few days ago the young rooster started crowing. Brinkley noted that it crowed at 6 a. m., noon and 6 p. m.—on the dot. He was astounded. It maintained the schedule day after day.

Neighbors were informed. They kept tab on the bird and verified Brinkley's claim that it "kept time."

Then Brinkley made a disappointing discovery. The cockerel crowed only when incited by a mill whistle in the neighborhood and the whistle sounded at 6 a. m., noon and 6 p. m.

20 Families to Be Marooned on Desert Isle

U. S. Employees to Care for New Lighthouse.

Venture, Calif.—Water, water everywhere, not a drop to drink.

Just like the Ancient Mariner, 20 government employees and their families will be marooned on a barren island 20 miles off this port when a new lighthouse station is ready for occupancy this fall.

Not a drop of water is to be found on the wind-swept bit of land, narrow and less than two miles in length. The precious fluid must be brought from the mainland in barrels, just as though the workers were living in the heart of the Sahara.

Difficulties of erecting the huge lighthouse, radio compass station, power house and foghorn station may be imagined with water so scarce. Sea water was found impractical for use in mixing concrete, so it was necessary to bring it from the mainland, land it on the beach and haul it over a rocky cliff to the building site.

Anacapa island, most southerly of the Santa Barbara channel islands, is directly in the path of coastwise steamer traffic, and has been lighted previously with only a small flashing light. Despite this, there have been no serious wrecks on its rocky shore.

Fate evidently plotted the courses of vessels so that they would pile up on San Miguel island, most northerly of the group, or on the opposite shore of the channel, at Point Arguello.

Although isolated and uninhabited until the arrival of the construction crew, Anacapa island has for years been a favorite haunt of fishing and pleasure craft.

Reduce the Acid

SICK stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated.

Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. For 50 years the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go, prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians in correcting excess acids.

Made specially for BABIES and CHILDREN

Physicians tell us that one condition is nearly always present when a child has a digestive upset, a starting cold or other little ailment. Constipation. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. This means it is mild and gentle; that it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. Yet it always gets results! ## How Lindbergh's Father

Found "Man" in His Son
Charles A. Lindbergh's father discovered "the man" in his son when they went fishing for the first time, according to the story of "The Lindberghs" in McCall's Magazine. Charles was twelve years old.

They started from Lake Itasca and for two weeks were alone on the river and lakes in northern Minnesota. They were two men who cooked their meals together over a fire in the open and slept out. When they returned Congressman Lindbergh said:

"That trip with Charles was one of the happiest times in my whole life. I learned to know my boy in those two weeks as I had never known him before. I found the man in him. He has good stuff and will stick. He stood up under the discomforts of that trip as I never expected he would. A good experience, that was, for both of us."

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated from babyhood. I became worried about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

STAGE COACH TALES

By E. C. TAYLOR

Zachary Taylor Skids

PRESIDENT ZACHARY TAYLOR, "Old Zach," who had led the American army that chased Santa Anna through northern Mexico in the war with Mexico, ignored the dangers of travel by stage coach over the old National pike while he reveled in the beauties of the scenery.

With a party of statesmen, politicians and office-seekers, President Taylor rode over the road in 1849, between Cumberland and the Ohio river.

The party rode in many specially chartered coaches. The identity of their drivers has never been clearly established, but they were the pick of the drivers then operating on the road west of Cumberland, and probably included such famous reinsmen as Henry Farwell, Archie McNeil and Alfred Wolf.

The Presidential party was under the marshalship of Thomas Shriver of Cumberland, that ardent Whig. Included in the party was Colonel Bullet, famous editor of New Orleans, who was the "Colonel House" of the Taylor administration.

The road was a glare of ice; everything above ground was heavily coated with sleet that had been falling for hours before President Taylor and his party left Cumberland.

To a southerner like President Taylor, who had never seen the like, it was a phenomenon.

Going down a spur of the road from Meadow mountain, the Presidential coach, along with all the others, danced and waltzed on the polished road, first to one side and then to the other, every moment threatening to overturn. But it remained upright under the capable handling of the driver.

Shriver was in one of the rear coaches, and was greatly in fear for the safety of the President. As the coaches careened down each hill and mountain his bare head could be seen protruding through the window of his coach to discover if the President's coach was still upon its wheels.

The iron-gray head of Zachary Taylor with almost the same frequency could be seen outside the window of the Presidential coach. But Zachary Taylor was not trying to see after anybody's safety. He was enjoying what seemed to him an Arctic panorama.

After the party had skidded and lurched along many hills and down many slopes, and everything was safe, they finally reached the Narrows, two miles west of Cumberland, at twilight.

At the Narrows is one of the most sublime views along the Atlantic coast. There Zachary Taylor assumed command and ordered a halt. He got out in the snow and sleet and looked and looked at the giddy heights on both sides of Wills creek, every twig of vegetation and every inch of ground covered with glistening ice.

He had beheld nothing like it in his life before, not even in the beautiful mountains of northern Mexico when he was on the trail of the elusive Santa Anna.

It was more than an hour before the President would permit Shriver and the rest of the frightened party to proceed on their journey.

It was known along the road that the President and his retinue of dignitaries were making the trip, and great alarm was felt when they failed to reach Cumberland at the time they were due. Every precaution had been taken, of course, to insure the President's safety, but the people of Cumberland stood about awaiting "Old Zach" with many misgivings.

When President Taylor and his party finally pulled into Cumberland they were tendered a huge reception and the unperturbed general and his shaken companies dined, rested, and set out the next morning to continue their journey to Washington.

President Taylor was only one of the nation's leaders who traveled over the famous old pike before the railroads had pushed across the Alleghenies.

Jackson, Van Buren, Monroe, Harrison, Polk and Tyler were other chief executives who rode the stage coaches over the old National road.

Others were Henry Clay, champion of the road in congress, and a great favorite with all the stage coach drivers Benton and Cass, Lafayette, the Mexican general, Santa Anna, the Indian chief Black Hawk, John Quincy Adams, P. T. Barnum, and Jenny Lind, who returned from her first tour of the West by stage coaches from the Ohio river to the east.

China's Bootleg Calendar

China's law forbidding the printing of calendars according to the old lunar system has failed to prevent the continued use of that system or the celebration of the Chinese New Year as it has been observed for thousands of years. Chinese families buy calendars printed according to the Gregorian reckoning and then write in the corresponding lunar dates. As before, they have marked the advent of the new year by abstaining from work, visiting friends, paying debts and setting off firecrackers.

Lesson for October 25

PAUL IN CORINTH

GOLDEN TEXT—And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Working for Jesus in a Great City.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Working and Preaching in a Great City.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Working for Christ in a Great City.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity in a Cosmopolitan City.

The establishment of the church at Corinth is an example of missionary endeavor for all ages.

I. The True Missionary Method (vv. 1-3).

Paul came to Corinth a stranger. He did not have an advance agent to do his advertising, neither did he have his photograph put in the daily paper with a sensational announcement upon his arrival at Corinth. His method of gaining a foothold in Corinth was:

1. Finding a home (v. 2). This he found with Aquila and Priscilla, Jews who were recently expelled from Rome by the cruel edict of Claudius.

2. He toiled for his daily bread (v. 3). He was of the same craft with his hosts, who were tent makers. Every child among the Jews was taught some trade by means of which he could gain a livelihood should occasion require.

II. Preaching in the Synagogue at Corinth (vv. 4-8).

1. Though compelled to toil for a living while getting a foothold in Corinth, he did not lose sight of his main work (v. 4). He reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, persuading the Jews and the Greeks.

2. His activity was increased when Silas and Timothy came (v. 5), which resulted from three causes:

a. They brought good news from the church at Thessalonica (I Thess. 3:6).

To hear of the steadfastness of those who had confessed Christ under his ministry put new vigor into his labors.

b. They brought pecuniary gifts from the Macedonian church (Phil. 4:15; II Cor. 11:9). Being relieved from the necessity of toiling for a living, he could now devote more time to the preaching of the gospel.

c. Silas and Timothy became assistants to Paul in the work.

3. Paul opposed (v. 6). His increased activity was met with increased opposition. As the Lord's ministers become more aggressive in their work, the ministers of Satan put forth corresponding efforts in opposition.

4. Paul announces his purpose to turn to the Gentiles (v. 6), because of the blasphemy and opposition of the Jews.

5. He did not go far away (v. 7). He remained sufficiently near those whose hearts God had touched so that they could easily find him.

6. His success (v. 8). Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, was converted. Perhaps Paul's severity in turning away from them moved Crispus to act. Pressure to an immediate decision is helpful to some. They realize that it is now or never. Many others followed the example of Crispus. Paul varied from his usual custom and baptized Crispus, who was an important man (I Cor. 1:14).

III. Paul's Vision (vv. 9-11).

His experiences since coming to Europe were very trying. He needed encouragement at this time. It is just like the Lord to come at the time of the servant's greatest need. Note the Lord's words to him:

1. "Be not afraid." When one is executing the commission of the Lord he need not be afraid.

2. "Speak and hold not thy peace." The one who has heard the voice of God cannot refrain from speaking.

3. "I am with thee." The Lord is with everyone who faithfully carries out his command.

4. "No man shall set on thee to hurt thee." The one sent by the Lord to do a work is immune from harm until his work is done.

5. "I have much people in this city." It is most encouraging to know that in the great cities the Lord has his own people and that the one who goes in his name shall have fruit for his service.

IV. Paul Before Gallio (vv. 12-17).

1. The charge against him (v. 13). They accused him of persuading men to worship God contrary to the law.

2. Gallio's decision (vv. 14-16). He decided that it was not his concern to settle disputes concerning matters of the Jewish law.

3. Sosthenes beaten (v. 17). In all probability he was leading the attack upon Paul. The Greeks seemed to have sympathized with Paul. Therefore, they turned against his enemy.

The Will of Christ

If, then, the will of Christ is not being fulfilled through us, if there is good that it belongs to us to do, but which remains undone, then the point of juncture with Christ is the point that needs looking to . . . the reason of our fruitlessness is the simple one, that we are not closely enough attached to Christ.—Marcus Dodds.

Results From Prayer

More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of.—Tennyson.

Change Radio

Show Date To

January 18th

Ordinarily this would be radio show week in Chicago, but the annual event at the Coliseum has been postponed at the request of manufacturers until January 18th, 1932.

The Chicago Radio-Electrical Show, attended each year by approximately a quarter million radio fans from Chicago and the middle west, is the oldest major radio exposition in the world. Since its inception, ten years ago, it has been held at varying times in the autumn, as decided by the majority of manufacturers.

This year radio and electrical appliance manufacturers suggested to U. J. Herrmann and G. Clayton Irwin, Jr., co-directors, that a trade show be combined with the public show and that the combined show be held during the first month of the new year. It is the manufacturers' idea, Mr. Herrmann explained, that a conference with their important jobbers and dealers, at the start of the annual season would be of greater advantage to both than if held in mid-season.

Faith. Lutherans teach that faith is a penitent sinner's acceptance of Jesus Christ as his real and only Savior and full reliance on His merits for forgiveness of sins and salvation; that such faith is not a personal achievement or an act of human merit, but a work of the Holy Spirit; that he who endures in this faith to the end will be really, fully, and eternally saved; and that without it no salvation is possible. # Now GAS IS CHEAPER ## and it's not too late to heat your home with this ideal fuel THIS WINTER

THERE is still time to have carefree gas heating service for your home this winter. And because a new gas has been brought into northern Illinois, it has been possible to reduce the cost of this most modern of fuels approximately 30%.

Let us figure your cost

To show you just what this reduction means to you, we will be glad to send one of our house heating engineers to call at your home. At once—and without obligating you in any way. He can prepare an estimate of just what it will cost to heat with gas under the new rates.

Remember in comparing gas with other fuels that it offers you completely carefree heating service. A temperature regulator in the living room takes full charge of the furnace—orders your fuel as you need it—keeps the whole house comfortably, healthfully warm.

Install gas heat now

Why not install gas heat now—for the coming winter. You can begin to enjoy its many advantages during changeable fall weather. When temperatures drop temporarily, your gas heater will start up automatically. As soon as the house is comfortable, off it goes again. Because the heater works automatically, you waste no fuel.

And, of course, you're through with shoveling coal, fussing with drafts, carrying out ashes forever.

In most cases your present heating plant can be "converted to gas" at small expense. A gas-burner can be installed in the fire-box whether your system is warm air, hot water or steam. The Public Service Company's testing laboratory has approved half a dozen of these conversion burners—will be glad to recommend one exactly suited to your home.

Mail the coupon

If you will mail us the coupon below, we'll send one of our house heating engineers to call on you. He will not only tell you all about the new gas heating rates and conversion burners—but also estimate just what gas heat will cost during an average heating season.

Public Service Rate Cut Makes Business Increase

Rate reductions by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois over the past year have amounted to a saving for customers and corresponding decrease in the Company's revenues of more than $1,351,000.
This was brought out in the quarterly statement of earnings made public this week and to be enclosed with dividends sent to the Company's stockholders on November 1st.

A cut in residential electric rates slightly more than a year ago saved customers over a million and a half dollars during the 12 months that followed the reduction. The portion of this amount applying to the quarter just ended was $141,000, according to the quarterly bulletin.

The bulletin further calls attention to the recently announced reduction of price of gas, which will save customers supplied with gas service more than a half a million dollars in gas bills during the coming year.

The tendency of these rate reductions, however, is to increase the business of the Company. Evidence of this with respect to the last reduction in electric rates is to be found in the 6 per cent increase in consumption of electricity by residential customers since the rate became effective. Altho the gas rate reduction has only recently gone into effect it is estimated that a marked increase will be noticed in the use of gas for heating homes thruout the widespread area served by the Company, due to the 30 per cent cut in the cost of that service to the user.

Operating revenues of the company for the quarter which ended on September 30, 1931, were $8,344, 033.35 and net income for this period after deducting charges for taxes, interest and providing for retirements, was $1,411,024.97. For the 12 months period which ended at the same time operating revenues were $35,853,638.32, and net income was $7,198,639.19.

Our New Story

No story ever written has pictured with more romantic effect and, at the same time, more accurate realism adventurous conditions in the North land and the part played by that brave and highly efficient police service, the Northwest Mounted, than "Hearts of the North," by William Byron Mowery. The setting is in a wilderness of forest, muskeg, lakes, and streams almost under the Arctic Circle. The highways are flowing water and the police mounts are canoes and power boats. It is a love story of an officer of the service and a true daughter of the North. Do not fail to read this, the new serial, in this paper.

PALOS PARK

About 80 art pupils of Dudley Watson motored to Palos Park Wednesday to visit the homes of Donald Richberg, E. W. Rowles and Evan Reed. The class were studying homes and types of architecture and visited several homes in Oak Park before coming to Palos.

Donald Richberg, noted lawyer, will lead the Sunday evening meeting at the Community Church Nov.
8th. He will choose his own subject.

The meeting is open to the public.
The Palos Woman's Club held a very interesting meeting Thursday in the church parlors.
James Kotraba has been ailing for some time and plans a short vacation.
Wm. Mahaffay, engineering student at Northwestern University has been pledged by Acacia.

The Stockdales are harvesting their annual crop of honey. The quality is extra fine this year.

The Funstan family moved their furniture last Sunday to their new home in Morgan Park.

Palos was honored with a visit from the Orland Legion post last Monday. They opened the drive for the Governor's Relief Commission.

The King Electric organization is busy installing radio outfits in police cars. They also have been enjoying a good business in their shop.

Rumor has it that 119th street is to be paved in addition to State Route 52. This will relieve the congestion on 123rd street.

Steps in the Evolution of the Telephone Switchboard

1. The world's first commercial telephone switchboard, 1878.

2. An early type of switchboard used in Washington, D. C.

6. A modern manual switchboard in a New York City central office. Comparison of this scene, typical of hundreds throughout the country, with the crude equipment shown in figure 1, gives some indication of the steps through which the art of telephony has passed in little more than half a century.

3. A switchboard once used in Richmond, Va.

4. Boy operators were employed in this New York City central office of 1879.

5. A Milwaukee switchboard of 1883.

After Alexander Graham Bell had invented the telephone, the need for some means of interconnecting several telephone lines at one central point was soon apparent. Within a few years, widely different methods were tried out in various parts of the country. In 1878, the Western Electric Manufacturing Company brought out its standard switchboard, and this fundamental design and the method of operation have been followed ever since. Developments have been toward accomplishing the rapidly increasing number of telephone subscribers, and toward perfecting the equipment and methods which give the highly efficient service of the present. Some steps in the evolution of the switchboard are shown above. Figure 1: True to its name, the switchboard installed for the New Haven District Telephone Company was a "board" with "switches" on it. Figure 2: Following telegraph methods, connections on this "Post" switchboard were made by inserting solid metal plugs between horizontal cross-connecting bars and vertical rows of metal buttons connected to the various lines. Figure 3: The use of double-ended cords, instead of switches or solid plugs, is shown in this telegraph-type switchboard. Figure 4: Cords were used in this New York City office of 1879, as was also an early type of hand telephone for talking with subscribers; the boys were soon replaced by girl operators. Figure 5: This Milwaukee switchboard, in use five years after the introduction of the first commercial switchboard in New Haven, shows the use of construction more nearly resembling modern practice. Figure 6: The most striking change, as exemplified in today's manual switchboard, is the great compression of equipment required to handle the concentrated traffic of the present.

Fruit Insurance

YOU can refuse to see the man who calls unheralded and unsung and offers you a peerless accident and health policy, but your doctor will tell you that there is one kind of insurance it is neither wise nor prudent to ignore at any season of the year. That is the insurance of contented good health that comes from a proper proportion of fruit in the diet. Fortunately, many fresh fruits are available at this season, and there is also one fruit that combines excellently not only with other fruits in cocktails and salads, but with meats and sauces in hot dishes, and that is available at any season. This fruit is the luscious pineapple which is picked and clapped into a can at the very moment of its prime ripeness in the many fields of Hawaii and reaches you in the same peerless (we knew we'd use that word again) condition.

An Infinite Variety

It offers you an infinite variety of ways to vary your menu at little expense during the hot summer months when appetites are lagging and finicky, and here are some of the very latest of them:

Carrot Salad: Prepare a package of lemon flavored gelatin according to directions but use pineapple syrup from the can for part of the liquid. When the gelatin begins to set, add one and one-half cups grated, raw carrots, one medium-sized can of crushed pineapple and one-fourth cup minced green pepper. In the bottom of each individual mold place a slice of sweet tomato pickle. Pour the gelatin in the molds and place in cold place. Unmold and serve with boiled dressing and minced green pepper and parsley.

Sardine Canapé: Slice bread one-fourth inch thick and cut in rounds the size of a slice of pineapple. Toast the bread and butter it lightly. Dip slices of pineapple in flour and fry to a golden brown. Place on the toast. Spread with a mixture made by adding four chopped sour pickles and mayonnaise to two cans of boned and mashed sardines. Top with mayonnaise.

Dainty Desserts

Pineapple Betty: Mix one and one-half cups drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one cup soft bread crumbs, three tablespoons brown sugar and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon. Put in a greased baking dish and over it pour one-half cup of the syrup drained from the pineapple. Dot the top with pieces of butter, using one tablespoon even until brown, and serve hot or cold with a pudding sauce or whipped cream.

Pineapple Ice Cream: Dissolve five cups sugar in one quart of milk, add one quart of cream, juice of two lemons and three oranges, and one can of crushed pineapple. Freeze slowly, and when of mushy consistency, add five egg whites beaten until stiff. Freeze until firm.

Pineapple Sundae Sauce: Mix one cup each of crushed pineapple, sugar and water. Boil fifteen minutes, chill and serve on ice cream. This sauce is also good on cake or puddings.

A Salad and Soufflé

Frozen Fruit Salad: Peel and dice four oranges and pour over four sliced bananas and the juice of one lemon. Add contents of a can of white cherries and a can of pineapple. Sweeten to taste and fold in one cup mayonnaise and one cup whipped cream. Freeze in molds for four hours. Unpack, slice and serve on lettuce.

Pineapple Soufflé: Soak one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in cold water. Add the grated rind and juice of one lemon, one-half cup sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt to three beaten egg yolks. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add two-thirds cup of crushed pineapple and set in a cold place until mixture begins to stiffen. Fold in one-half cup cream, whipped, and three stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a mold and set in a cold place until firm.*

Mokena School News

The final base ball game of the season was played last Friday at Mokena against Monee. Due to errors on the part of the Mokena team and timely hitting by Monee batters the latter won 10-6.

Basket ball practice has started. The boys practice on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday after school. The girls practice Thursday and Friday. The first scheduled game is with Manhattan High School, first and second teams on Friday evening, November 13. Manhattan has been asked to play here on Friday, Nov. 6, but no word has been heard from them so far.

The honor roll for the first six weeks of school consists of the following: Vivian Walston, Erwin McGovney, Evelyn Nelson.

There has been quite a little interest in theme writing in the past three weeks. It is the intention to put the best of these from time to time in the school news.

The honors go this time to Norman Hauck of the Sophomore Class and Erwin McGovney of the Freshman Class. These themes are as follows:

MAN'S FRIENDS, THE BIRDS
By Norman Hauck

Birds are of greater value to man than any other group of animals. It is their relation to insects and other enemies of crops that make them so helpful.

Not all the birds are beneficial but the useful far outnumber the injurious and therefore much credit is given to the birds as being one of the main factors for wiping out insects.

Take woodpeckers for instance; they feed on beetles in spring and summer, grasshoppers in July and September, ants in the summer. Weevils are also eaten. Corn is the only grain eaten. Therefore we can plainly see that woodpeckers benefit us greatly. However there are the sapsuckers that suck the sap from the trees and kill them.

Humming-birds live on the nectar of flowers. We find that while taking the honey, they fertilize the plants while getting their food. We have seen them in front of a cob web taking spiders and insects.

By these two illustrations we can see how man is benefited by birds. If all these insects were allowed to live, there would be twice as many as there are now and think of the damage these thousands and millions of grasshoppers, ants and beetles would do.

Eventually man has learned that birds are friends. They miss the cherry songs from the robins and thrush in the winter time. So everyone is glad when spring and summer is here to have our visitors, the birds. Their protection at all times can only be a fair payment for their help and song.

WHY OTHER PEOPLE*INTEREST US

By Erwin McGovney

There are many different tempered people and some people have other ways of thinking that may not seem just right to us. Furthermore, people work, study, and devote their whole life to one undertaking or profession.

One person interests me very much because he is a good sportsman, is very learned, and has few bad habits; although there are very few if any that are perfect in conduct, manner or speech. Another person interests me because of his ability as a musician. He is also a lover of nature. I am interested in another person because of his ability as an athlete and as a scholar.

There are other people who interest me because they are interested in the same good principle or object in which I am interested. A certain student can give me something that I haven't yet received. Again another person has shown me many good times that have been both profitable and enjoyable. Still other people interest me because of their wit and ability to do the right thing when they are told to do it. Some are of interest because they are true friends no matter what our circumstances.

Sometimes people are interesting because they are good speakers or good actors. An actor maybe interesting because of his speech or perhaps his good looks. A speaker in order to speak good English, choose a good topic and know what he is talking about.

There are many boys and men whose smile and cheerfulness have been a foundation to a successful career.

Together with a summary of all these things other people in order to be interesting to us must be able to do something that we cannot do, or they must possess something that we haven't got.

Leaves $15,000 Estate

Anton Kohl, retired Mokena farmer, who died August 31 at the age of 92 years, left an estate of $15,000 in personal property to be divided among his heirs. He had disposed of his farm property before his death.

The aged Mokena man left all of his property to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Kohl, to be used by her during her lifetime. However, she preceded him in death, June 29, so the property will go directly to children and grandchildren as provided in the will.

Mrs. Mary Schweser, a daughter, inherits the house and lot at 102 Hyde Park avenue, where she and her husband now reside. Mrs. Rose McBride, Lewisville, Ind. another daughter, is to have a gift of $4,000 in cash.

Gifts of $1,000 each in cash were left to each of Mr. Kohl's grandchildren. They are: Robert, Elsie, Edna and Orville Hohenstein, all of Mokena, and Emma Hohenstein of Lewisville, Ind.

Mr. Kohl's sons, John, Tinley Park and Joseph, Wibaux, Mont., he says in the will, have been provided for during his lifetime. Another son, Lawrence Kohl, Mokena, is named executor of the estate.

CHAPTER LXIV—Continued

In the First corps the Eightieth division, on the 4th, in spite of the enemy's stand, captured Vaux-en-Dieulet and Sommauthe. The enemy retired during the night and the division took up the pursuit, overcoming vigorous rear guard resistance until reaching a line north and west of Beaumont. During the night of the 5th its progress continued, the division being relieved the next morning.

The Seventy-seventh division was effectively opposed on the 4th north and east of Och, but on the 5th its line was pushed forward to the north of Stonne and La Besace. By night of the 6th the Seventy-seventh had reached the Meuse, Remilly and Villers being entered by its patrols.

The Seventy-eighth division on the 4th captured Les Petites Armoises, and on the following morning advanced more than a mile to the north. The Forty-second division relieved the Seventy-eighth on this line, and by the 6th established itself north of Bulson.

It was the ambition of the First army, and mine, that our troops should capture Sedan, which the French had lost in a decisive battle in 1870. I suggested to General Maistre that the prescribed boundary line between our First and the French Fourth army might be ignored in case we should outrun the French, to which he offered no objection, but on the contrary warmly approved.

To reach the objective the left boundary of the First army would have to be ignored; as Sedan lay to the northwest beyond that limit. The afternoon of November 5, the First corps was directed to bend its energies to capture Sedan "assisted on its right by the Fifth corps."

A misconception in the Fifth corps of the exact intent of my orders resulted in the First division erroneously going beyond the left boundary of the Fifth corps and marching directly across the sector of the First corps during the late afternoon of the 6th and throughout the night. The troops of the First division carried out this unnecessary forced march in fine spirit, despite their tired condition.

Considerable confusion resulted in the Forty-second and Seventy-seventh divisions, and their advance was delayed as roads became blocked by the columns of the First division. The Forty-second and the First then began a race for the honor of capturing Sedan. Part of these divisions had entered the zone of the French Fourth army and were waging a fight with the enemy for the possession of the heights south and west of Sedan.

The morning of November 7 found men of the Forty-second and the First divisions on the heights overlooking the city. Under normal conditions the action of the officer or officers responsible for this movement of the First division directly across the sectors of two other divisions would not have been overlooked, but the splendid record of that unit and the approach of the end of hostilities suggested leniency.

The enemy's main line of communications was now within range of the machine guns of the First army, which had driven him 24 miles since November 1. His position on the western front was no longer tenable and he urged immediate consideration of an armistice.

Late on November 9 Marshal Foch, then in conference with German representatives regarding the terms of the armistice, sent telegraphic instructions to all allied commanders in chief from which it might be inferred that he was uncertain regarding the outcome of negotiations and wished to let the enemy know that there would be no further delay. The following was the message received:

"The enemy, disorganized by our repeated attacks, retreats along the entire front.

"It is important to co-ordinate and expedite our movements.

"I appeal to the energy and the initiative of the commanders in chief of their armies to make decisive the results obtained."

No Respite for Enemy.

Orders in response to this appeal were immediately issued and their execution by the First army was under way November 10 and 11. Yet here again no sort of urging was necessary. Our troops were determined not to give the enemy any respite. Already the crossing of the Meuse had been planned for the whole army, and the Fifth corps got over during the night of the 10th-11th. Part of the Eighty-ninth division crossed on rafts just west of Pouilly, and others in the rear of the Ninetieth division (Allen).

The Second division was unable to force a crossing at Mouzon, as planned, but about a mile south of Villemontray the engineers of the division, with exceptional rapidity and skill, threw two bridges across, over which one regiment passed. The Seventy-seventh division, now on the left of the Fifth corps, only sent over patrols on the 10th and 11th, the low ground north of the river opposite its front being flooded by heavy rains and damming operations by the Germans.

The First corps from November 6 to 10 was withdrawing its divisions to points on the Meuse between Dun-sur-Meuse and Verdun, preparatory to a general attack which would have as its object the turning of the enemy's strong position in front of the Fifth corps.

East of the Meuse the First army advanced in conjunction with the Second army, which had been earnestly preparing for this moment ever since its organization.

Under the instructions issued by me November 5 for the advance of the First and Second armies, which received approval of Marshal Foch in a personal note of November 8, the Second army made advances along its entire front in the direction of the Briey iron basin during the last three days of hostilities.

Attacking on the 10th, the Thirty-third division reached the Bois d'Harville and captured Marcheville, but was forced to retire. The Twenty-eighth division occupied a part of the Bois des Haudronvilles Bas, as well as Marimbols farm. The Seventh division took and held against counter-attack Hill 323. The Ninety-second division captured the Bois Frehaut.

On the front of the First army, the Ninetieth division, on the left of the Third corps (Hines), had crossed the Meuse on the 9th and attacked on the 10th, meeting decided opposition throughout the day. Elements of the division entered Stenay but were unable to clean up the town, while others, after hard fighting in the nearby wood, reached but could not take Baalon. The Fifth division (Ely) captured Jametz and cleared the Forêt de Woivre. The Thirty-second division (Haan) re-entered the line on the 9th, as the right division of the Third corps, and made substantial progress. On the 10th the division moved forward until stopped by heavy fire from east of the Thinte river.

Meanwhile other of our divisions were engaged on distant fronts. In Flanders our Thirty-seventh and Nin-the 11th was held up. The Twenty-eighth division carried its line forward north of Marimbols farm, the Seventh division made no attack, and the Ninety-second division attacked but did not hold all its gains.

The line of the First army, November 11, extended from Fresnes-en-Woevre to Pont-Maugis. The Second army line ran from Port-sur-Selle to Fresnes-en-Woevre. Thus both American armies were now in position to carry out the offensive as directed by my orders November 5, which was what I had planned and advocated when Marshal Foch insisted that there should be a covering movement of all the armies west of the Meuse, with Mezieres-Sedan as the objective of the American First army.

CHAPTER LXV

As the conference between Marshal Foch and the German delegates proceeded, and in anticipation of advances regarding the armistice, telephone lines were kept constantly open between my headquarters and those of the First and Second armies.

When word came to me at 6 a. m., November 11, that hostilities would cease at 11 a. m., directions to that effect were sent to our armies immediately. Our troops had been advancing rapidly during the preceding two days, and although every effort was made to reach them promptly a few could not be overtaken before the prescribed hour.

A brief account of the conference with the German delegates was given to me a few days later by General Weygand. He said the Germans came across the line by automobile the afternoon of November 7 and boarded a special railway coach sent by the French to meet them. During the night this car and the marshal's were placed side by side in the forest between Compiegne and Soissons.

The emissaries were ushered into the marshal's presence, and after producing their credentials were asked the object of their visit. They replied that they had come to discuss the terms of an armistice. The marshal then made it clear that he himself was not requesting an armistice and did not care to have one.

When asked if they wished an armistice they replied that they did. The marshal said that if that was the case, here were the terms, a copy of which he handed them. The severity of the demands seemed to surprise them and they appeared very much depressed. They had no power to sign an armistice they said, without the consent of the chancellor, and after essary to outweigh the tremendous increase in the strength of the Germans on the western front, due to the collapse of Russia and the consequent release of German divisions employed against her. From the military point of view we began to aid the allies early in 1918, when our divisions, with insufficient training to take active part in battle, were sent to the inactive front to relieve French divisions, that they might be used in the fighting line.

The assistance we gave the allies in combat began in May, with the successful attack of one of our divisions at Cantigny. This was followed early in June by the entrance into battle of the two divisions that stopped the German advance on Paris, near Chateau-Thierry, and by three others that were put in the defensive line.

In July two American divisions, with one Moroccan division, formed the spearhead of the counter-attack against the Chateau-Thierry salient, in which nine of our divisions participated. There was a total of approximately 300,000 American troops engaged in this Second Battle of the Marne, which involved very severe fighting, and was not completed until the Germans were driven beyond the Vesle in August.

In the middle of September an army of 550,000 Americans reduced the St. Mihiel salient. The latter part of September our great battle of the Meuse-Argonne was begun, lasting through 47 days of intense fighting and ending brilliantly for our First and Second armies, November 11, after more than 1,200,000 American soldiers had participated.

A Time to Forget Hardships.

It was a time to forget the hardships and difficulties, except to record them with the glorious history of our achievements. In praise and thanks for the decisive victories of our armies and in guidance for the future, the following order was issued:

"G. H. Q.
"American Expeditionary Forces.
"General Orders No. 203

"France, Nov. 12, 1918.
"The enemy has capitulated. It is fitting that I address myself in thanks directly to the officers and soldiers of the American expeditionary forces who by their heroic efforts have made possible this glorious result. Our armies, hurriedly raised and hastily trained, met a veteran enemy, and by courage, discipline and skill always defeated him. Without complaint you have endured incessant toil, privation and danger. You have seen many of your comrades make the supreme sacrifice that freedom may live. I thank you for the patience and courage with which you have endured. I congratulate you upon the splendid fruits of victory which your heroism and the blood of our gallant dead are now presenting to our nation. Your deeds will live forever on the most glorious pages of America's history.

"These things you have done. There remains now a harder task which will test your soldierly qualities to the utmost. Succeed in this and little note will be taken and few praises will be sung; fail, and the light of your glorious achievements of the past will sadly be dimmed.

"But you will not fail. Every natural tendency may urge toward relaxation in discipline, in conduct, in appearance, in everything that marks the soldier. Yet you will remember that each officer and each soldier is the representative in Europe of his people, and that his brilliant deeds of yesterday permit no action of today to pass unnoticed by friend or by foe.

"You will meet this test as gallantly as you have met the tests of the battlefield. Sustained by your high ideals and inspired by the heroic part you have played, you will carry back to our people the proud consciousness of a new Americanism born of sacrifice.

"Whether you stand on hostile territory or on the friendly soil of France, you will so bear yourself in discipline, appearance and respect for all civil rights that you will confirm for all time the pride and love which every American feels for your uniform and for you.

"JOHN J. PERSHING,
"General, Commander in Chief,
"Official:

"ROBERT C. DAVIS.

"Adjutant General."

The experience of the World war only confirmed the lessons of the past. The divisions with little training, while aggressive and courageous, were lacking in the ready skill of habit. They were capable of powerful blows, but their blows were apt to be awkward—teamwork was often not well understood. Flexible and resourceful divisions cannot be created by a few maneuvers or by a few months' association of their elements.

There is little to add in praise of the spirit of determination that stimulated each individual soldier to overcome the hardships and difficulties that fell to his lot. With fortitude and perseverance he gave his every energy to the accomplishment of his task, whether it required him to charge the enemy's guns or play the less conspicuous role of forwarding supplies. In their devotion, their valor and the loyal fulfillment of their obligations, the officers and men of the American expeditionary forces have left a heritage of which those who follow after may ever be proud.

The Crag Rats of Hood River, Ore., is a group whose avocation is the rescue of persons lost on mountains. It was organized in 1926, although the idea of such a rescue group had been suggested by a young lumberman, A. L. Anderson, some 12 years ago. In that locality scarcely a month passed that some one was not lost on some of the mountain peaks, so Anderson and other experienced mountain climbers formed their organization. In five years they have averaged six notable rescues annually and many others of lesser note.

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy, and keep your engagements. Headaches, systemic pains, come at inconvenient times. So do colds. You can end them before they're fairly started if you'll only remember this handy, harmless form of relief. Carry it in your purse and insure your comfort while shopping, your evening's pleasure at the theatre. Those little nagging aches that bring a case of "nerves" by day are ended in a jiffy. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking Bayer Aspirin! You'll find these tablets always help. If you get real aspirin, you'll get real relief. In every package of genuine Bayer tablets are proven directions which cover headaches, colds, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, rheumatism, etc.

The tablets stamped Bayer won't fail you, and can't harm you. They don't depress the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them whenever you need them, and take enough to end the pain.

Now You Need Not Fear Coughs

It is always important to get a cough under control as quickly as possible. Too often it may otherwise prove the forerunner of something far more serious. One sure way to banish the fear of coughs and colds is to have in your medicine chest a bottle of B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide. Keep it ready for instant use when anyone in your family develops symptoms of a cold in the chest or a sore throat. Use B. & M. externally, just as you would a mustard plaster. You will find it many times as efficient and it gets quick results. Order from your regular druggist, or send us his name and $1.25 and we will send a full-size bottle postpaid. Valuable booklet free on request. F. E. Rollins Co., 53 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

many of us cannot sing beautifully find ways to express our faith in our homes, our community and in our personal lives. The church exists for the purpose of such spiritual growth.

MOKENA

Mr. and Mrs. Lee and son of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stall of Chicago were guests at the Andrew Wachter home Sunday.

Last Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting of the St. John Evangelical Ladies Aid, Mokena, Free Gift Offering Day was observed.
The Ladies for the past several years have dispensed with the annual bazaar and supper, which entailed so much work and at the same time, personal gifts, and are now, instead, taking care of their financial affairs, by each giving of money, as they are able. This has proved to be a better and more satisfactory way. The amount collected last Thursday was $257.50, which is considered very good during this business depression, and the ladies all are very grateful to all who helped. There were some who were not able to attend and who have yet to make their donation. If there are any other who would care to make a donation, it will be gratefully accepted.

chestra for the next Lions dance.
This will be held in the new auditorium of the school, Wednesday evening November 18th. Everybody invited to come and have a good time, and help pay for the fine auditorium and gathering place for this community which is being furnished for its pleasure and entertainment. Half the net proceeds of the dance will be given the school board to help defray the extra expense of equipping the auditorium and gymnasium as this expense is being borne by local organizations and individuals.
